

PRESS RELEASE: NEW PRODUCT LAUNCH

The UK's first on- and off-line middleware-free solution connecting SAP to the workforce

Sky Technologies has come to Europe, appointing iQlink as their Premier Partner in the UK. iQlink has partnered with Orange to deliver a simple solution to connecting remote and mobile workers to SAP.

23rd November 2006

iQlink, Sky Technologies Premier Partner in the UK, has partnered with Orange to deliver an innovative SAP Certified mobile solution that sits within SAP, eliminating the need for middleware. SAP users can now capitalise on the investment of their business application by quickly and easily integrating to mobile devices, enabling their workforce to access SAP on mobile devices, PDAs and RF devices both online and offline, saving on costs and time and promoting business efficiencies.

The iQlink Sky Technologies Innerware™ solution is typically implemented within 1 to 3 months, providing remote and mobile workers constant access to business information. Managers can approve purchase orders, time and expenses and access stock, credit, customer and sales information whilst on the road, saving time and helping them to work more efficiently. Mobile service executives are empowered through up-to-the-minute access to stock, work order, sales and scheduling information, helping them to save time, reduce inaccuracies and therefore provide cost-savings to the business. One customer in Australia reported a 20% productivity improvement by reducing the amount of time their service engineers spend locating stock and processing payments on the road.

iQlink has partnered with Orange, the UK's largest integrated 2G and 3G business network.

Paul Viney, Managing Director of iQlink Ltd says "We are proud to be the UK Premier Partner for Sky Technologies Innerware™ solution and are delighted to be working with Orange, UK market leaders in mobile communications. Having worked at SAP UK for 8 years and been involved with SAP for 12, Sky Technologies have created the most exciting piece of integration software I have seen in all that time. This new development in technology delivers productivity throughout the enterprise."
